My Usage

Take Control of Your Energy Use

Don't be caught off guard when a leaky water heater causes your electric bill to spike — or maybe your emergency heat has been running when it's not supposed to. You now have an easy way to keep track of anything out of the ordinary in your electricity use with the click of a button.

- See how weather impacts the amount of energy you consume.
- Identify when your family uses the most energy in your home.
- Set notifications to receive email or text alerts when your home has used a certain amount of electricity.
- Review bills to determine differences between the same month a year apart.

Take it one step further: Compare your energy use over a specific period of time, and track changes at any particular point - for instance, before or after you upgrade an appliance. With My Usage, YOU have the power!

Energy Efficiency Tip

Stay Cozy at a Fraction of the Cost

Did you know one small electric blanket can use up to 85 percent less energy compared to a space heater, keeping you cozy and warm for a fraction of the cost. One blanket on the “high” setting is estimated to cost a little over a penny per hour to operate.
